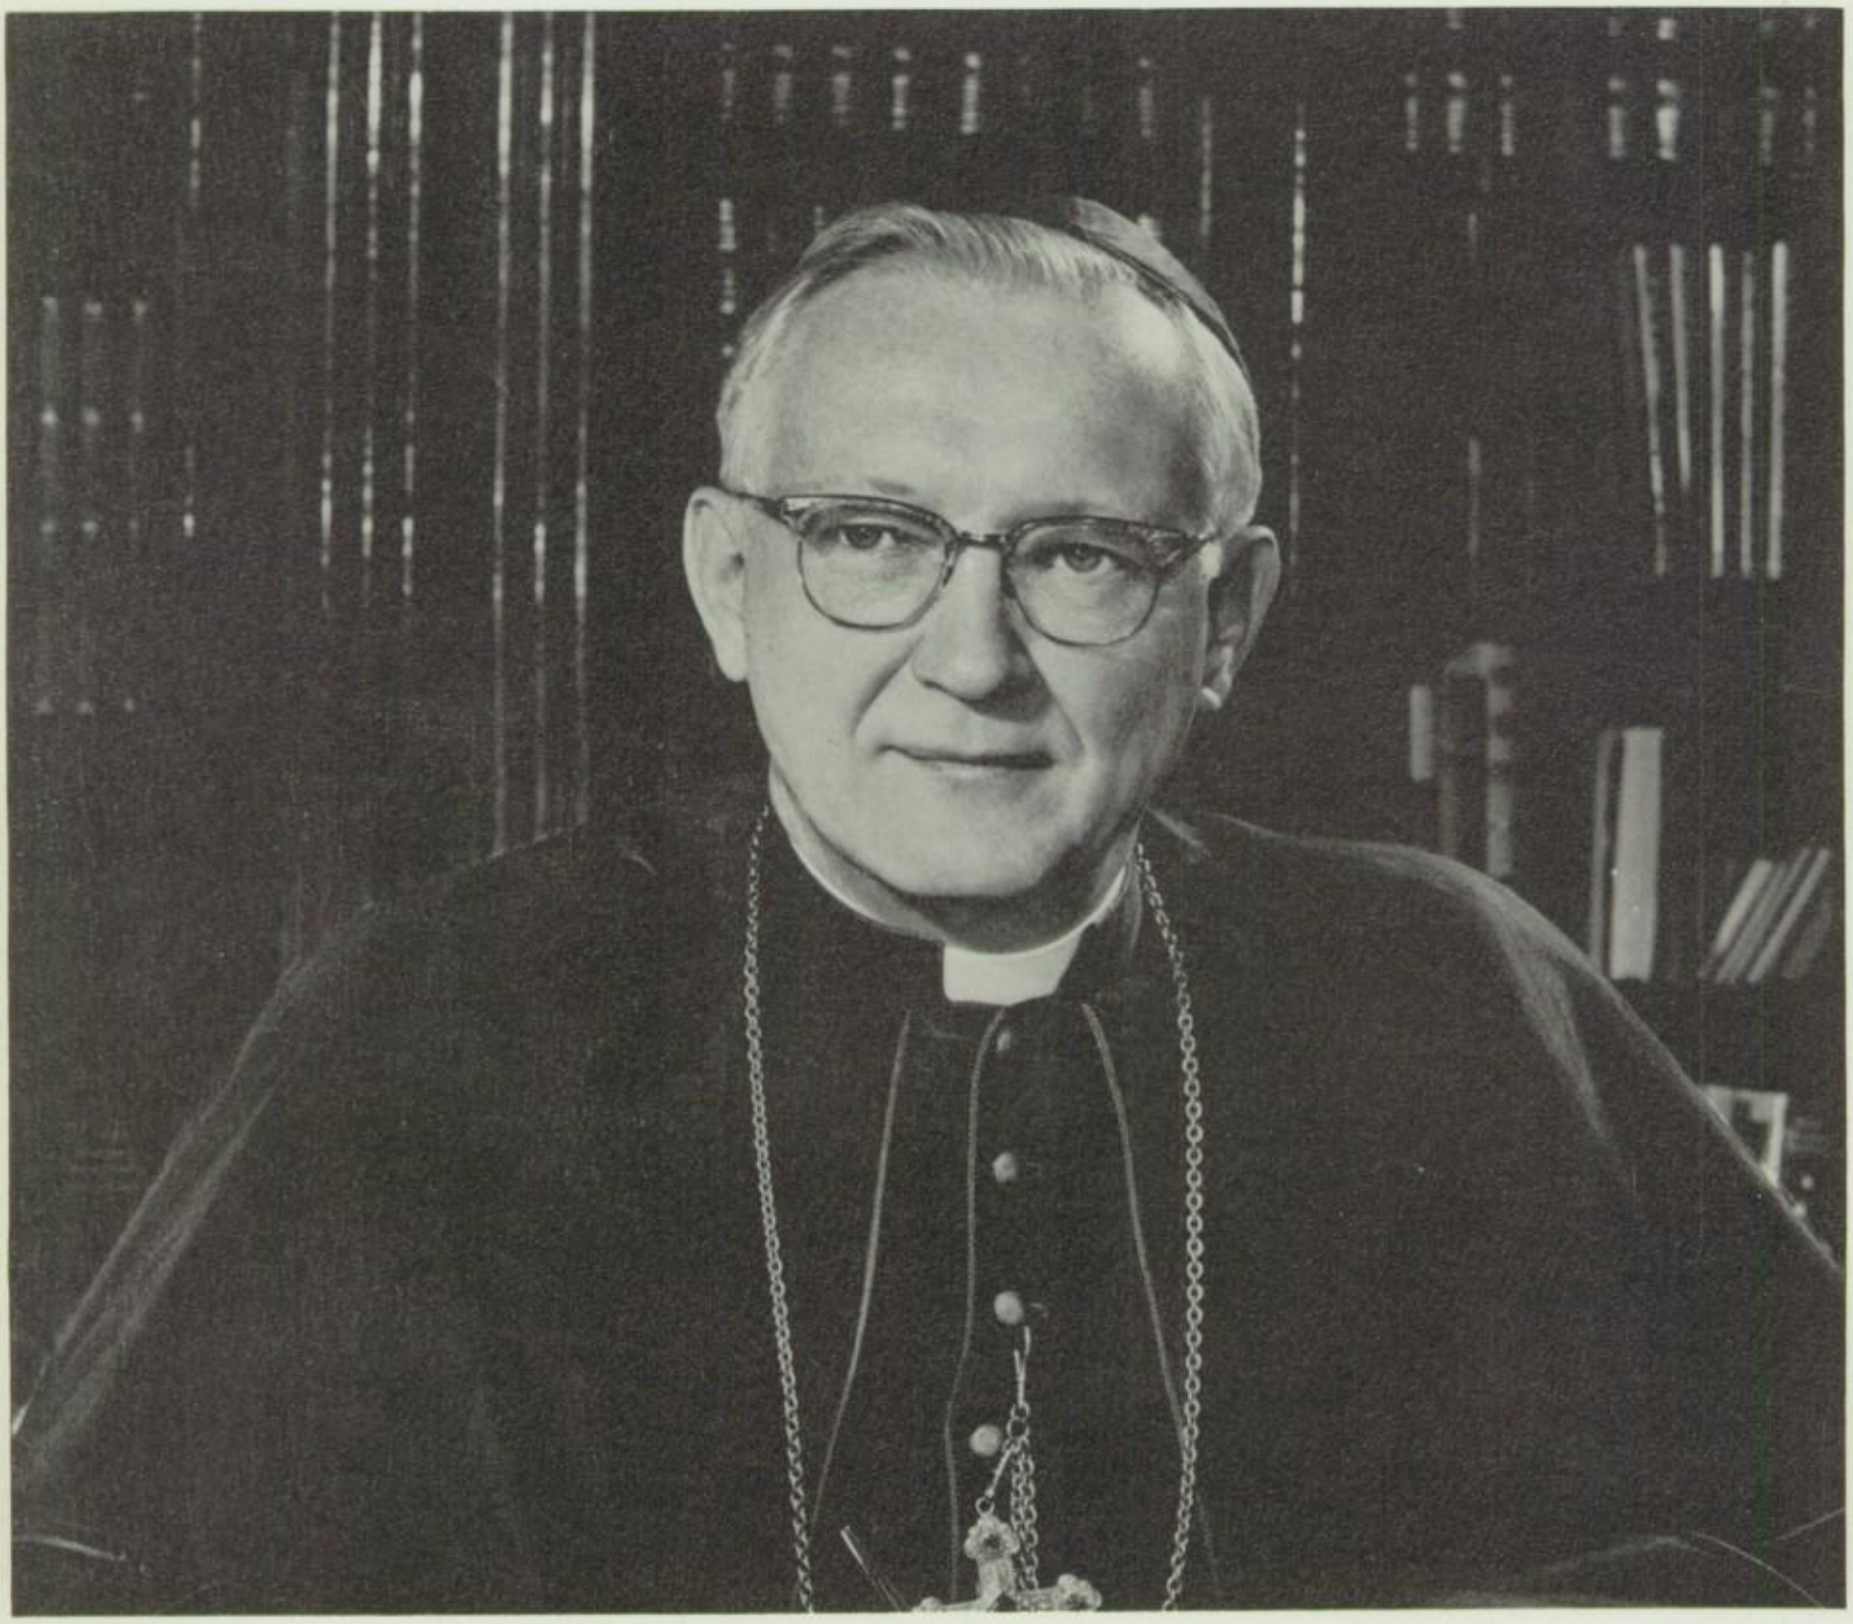
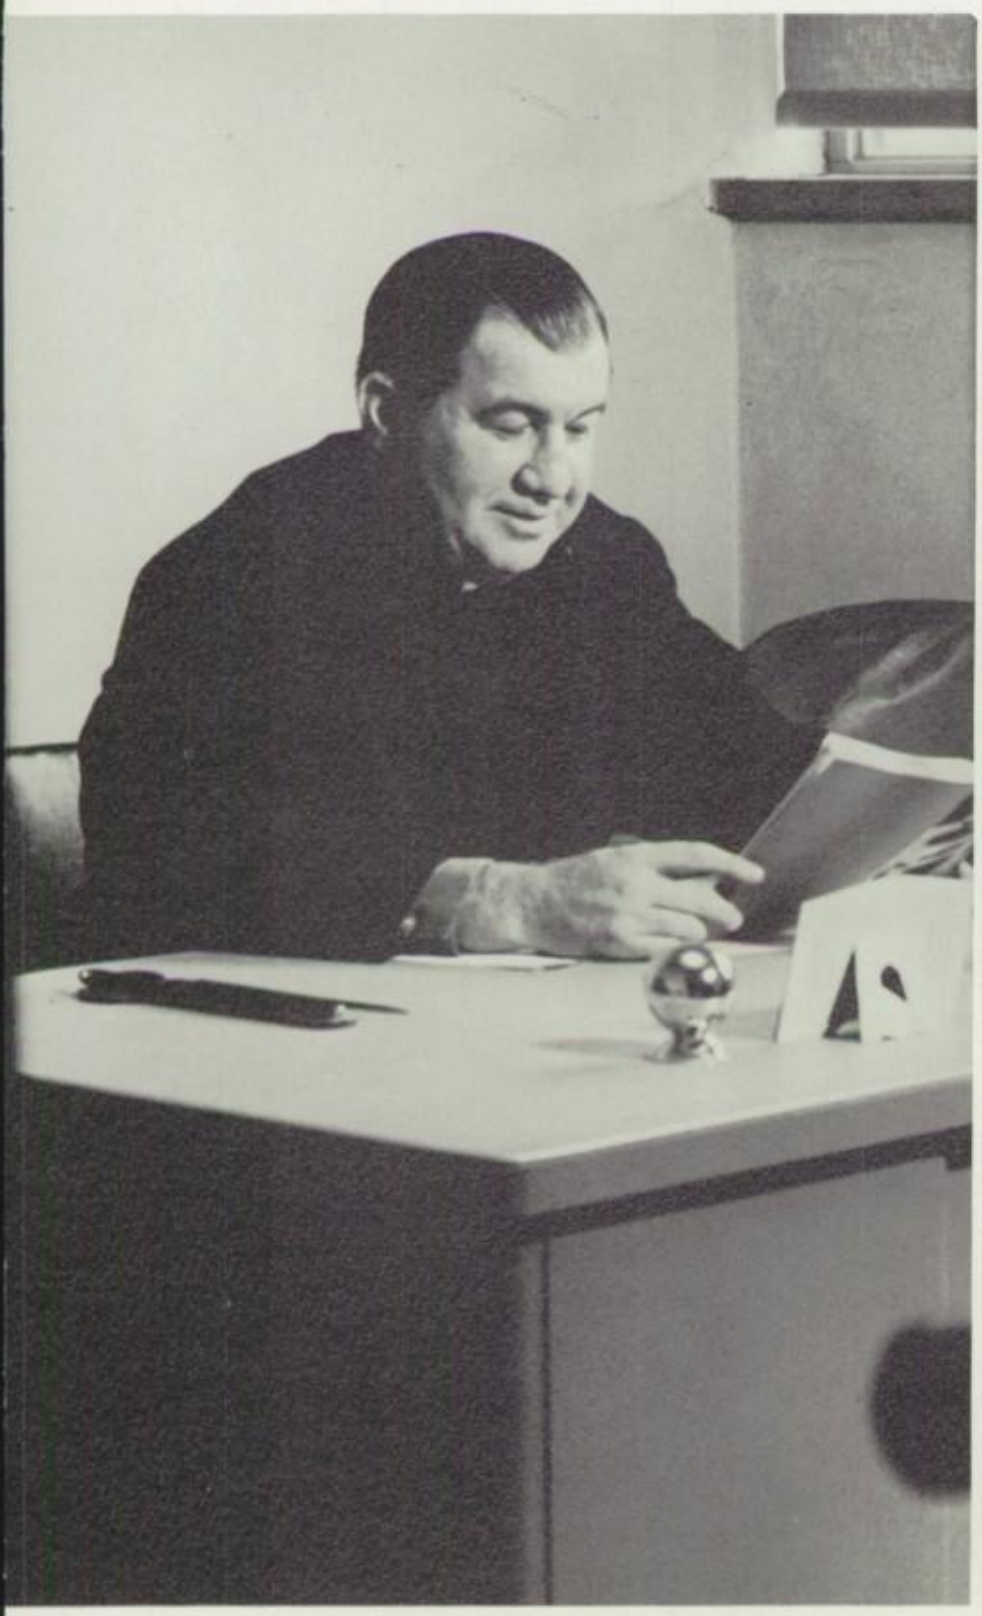
MATER DEI HIGH SCHOOL
BREESE, ILLINOIS

Dedication



With gratitude for his untiring work in building and supporting Mater Dei, we dedicate this 1965 KNIGHT to His Excellency, ALBERT R. ZUROWESTE, D.D., BISHOP OF BELLEVILLE.

Administration



Superintendent Reverend C.J. Cunningham begins a busy day that includes teaching a senior marriage course.

Reverend Jerome Ratermann, Principal, checks last minute class schedule changes.

Assistant Principals

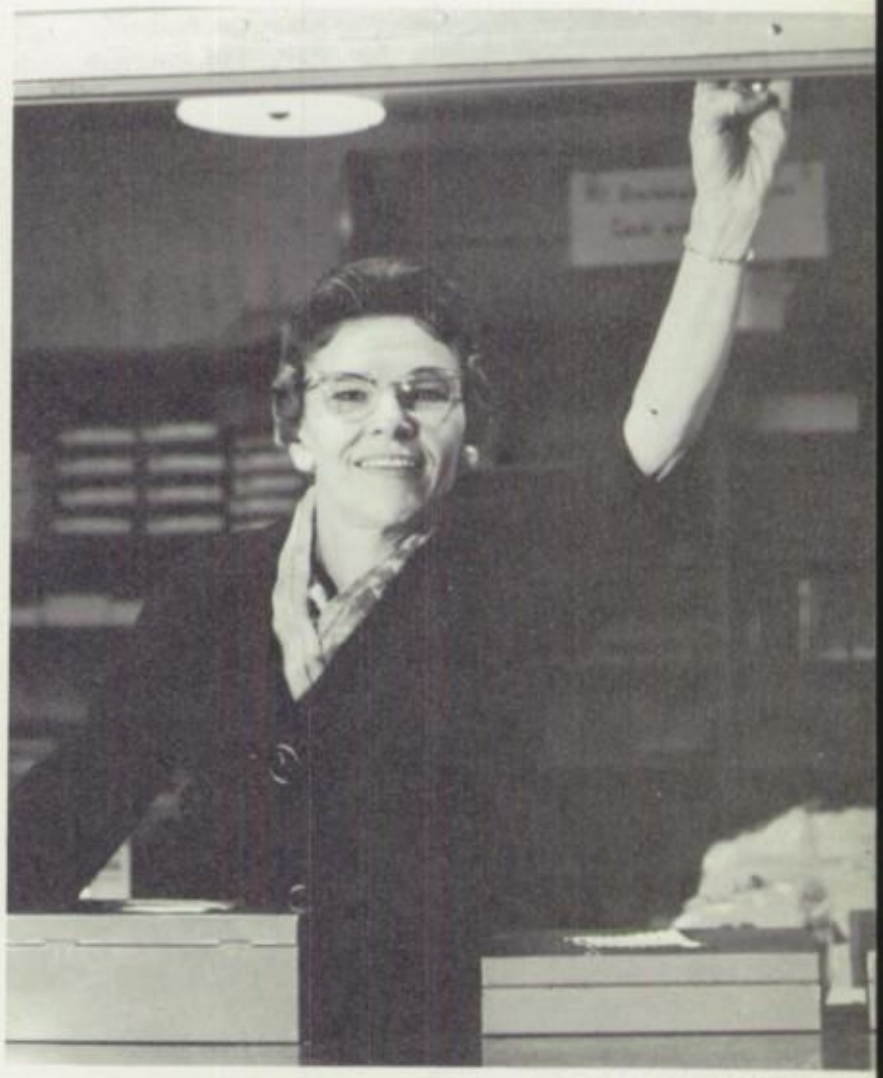
Sister Elizabeth examines student records.

Encouragement for success comes from Sister Jeannine.

Sister Etheldreda advises Nancy Feldman about her subjects.

Office

A great big "Thanks!" This above all is what we want to say to our administrators and faculty. This does seem small when we realize all they do for us. No matter what the event (concerts, sports, plays, speech contests, etc.), these people are always right there to lend a helping hand. The Priests, the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ, Sisters Adorers of the Most Precious Blood, School Sisters of Notre Dame, the lay faculty, and the M.D. office workers: we owe all these a great debt of gratitude, so we say again, "Thanks a lot for a job VERY well done!"

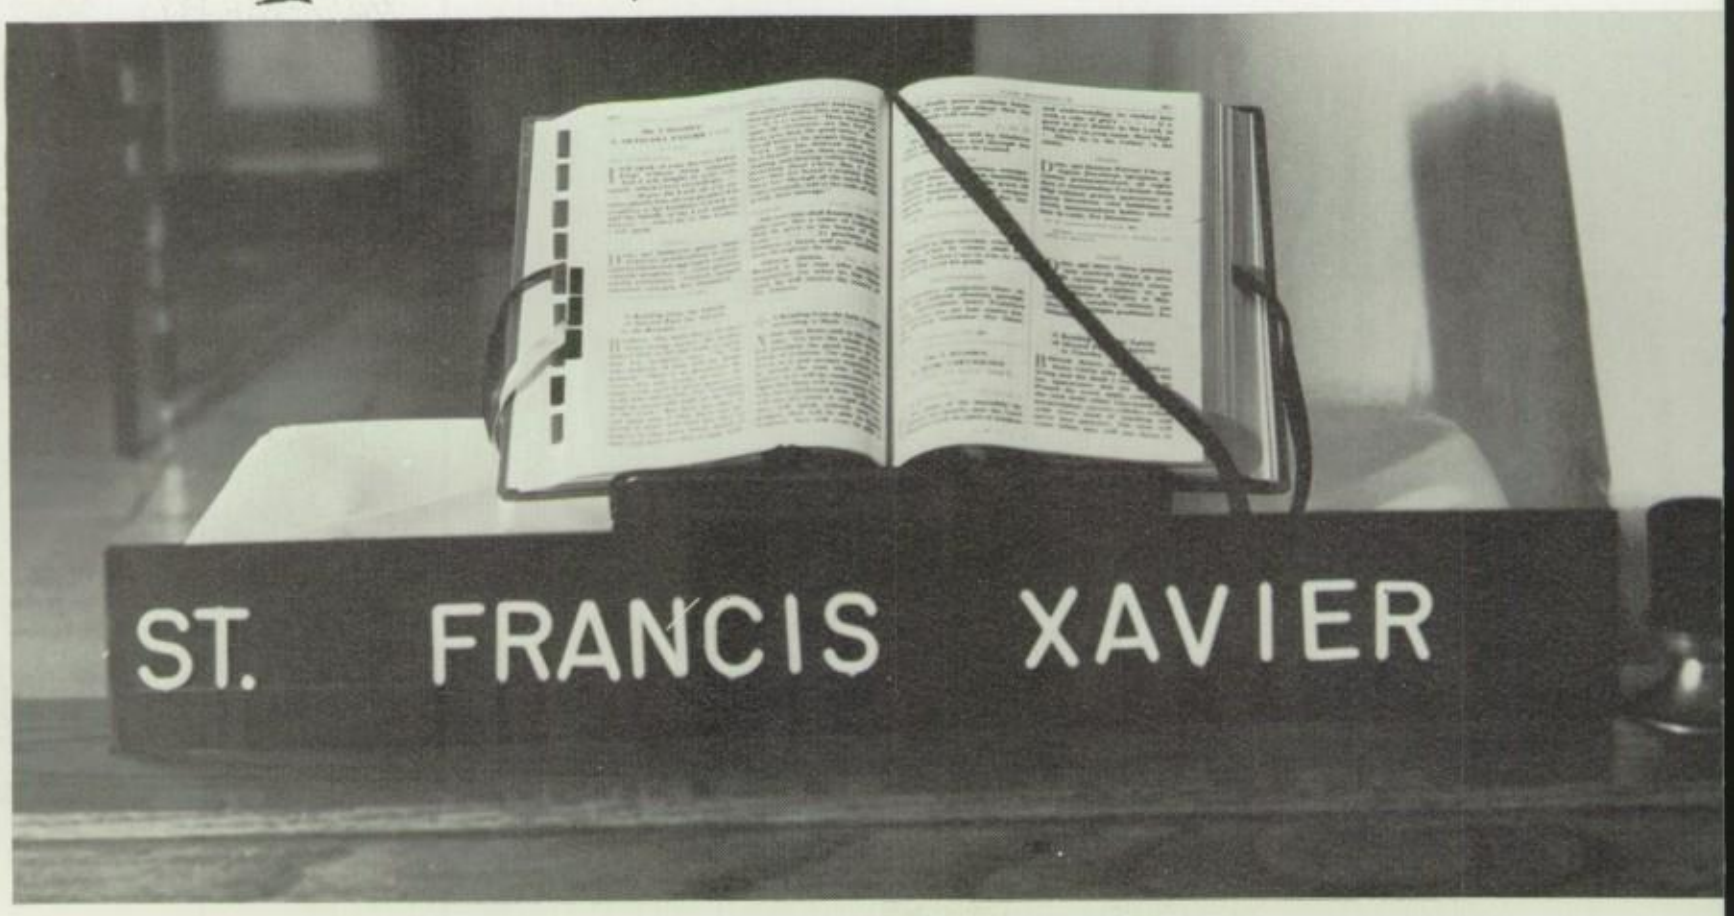


Mrs. Schlarmann types at highest speed to complete the file before 4:30.

Mrs. Bruening numbers the last one hundred basketball tickets to go on sale at 3:00.

Father Best gives the Last Blessing . . . the end of "The Perfect Sacrifice."

Spiritual Benefits



Enthronement of the "Word of God" notifies each chapel visitor of the daily feast.

Library

"By the way are we putting these away or taking them out?" asks Junior Carol Hammer.

Sister Agnese hopes her endless work will be for the benefit of the M.D. students.

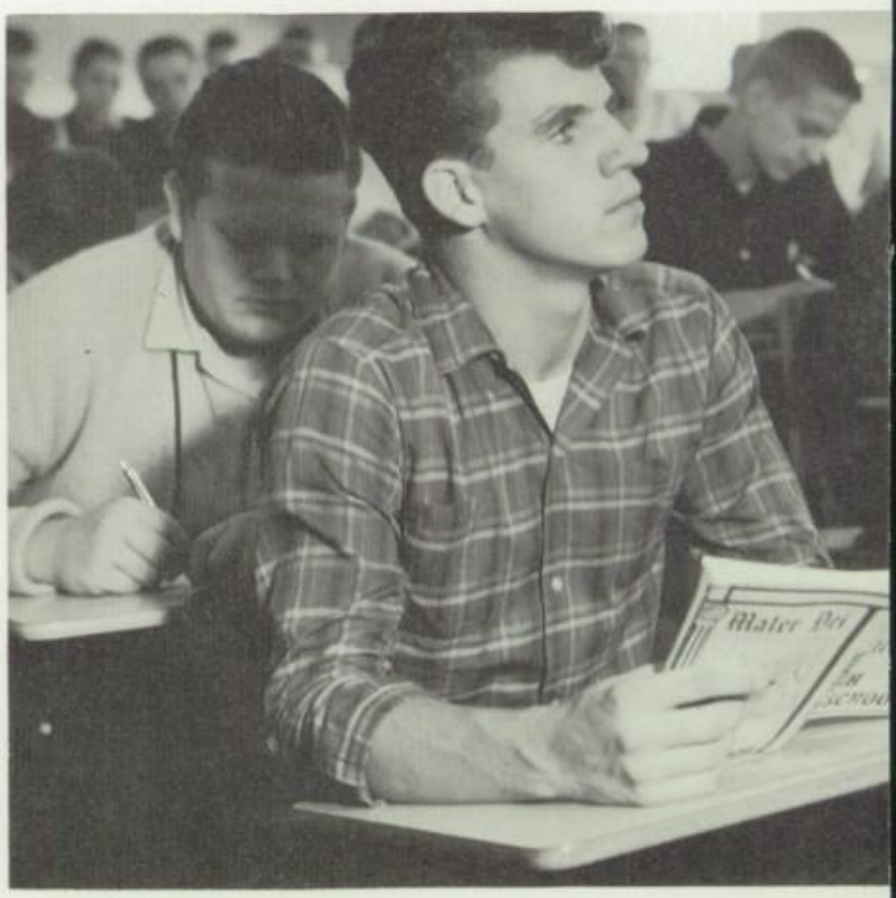
Turn around for one minute and what happens? He couldn't have checked all these magazines out.

Dorothy thinks a theme would be almost impossible without the many references in our library.

Religion

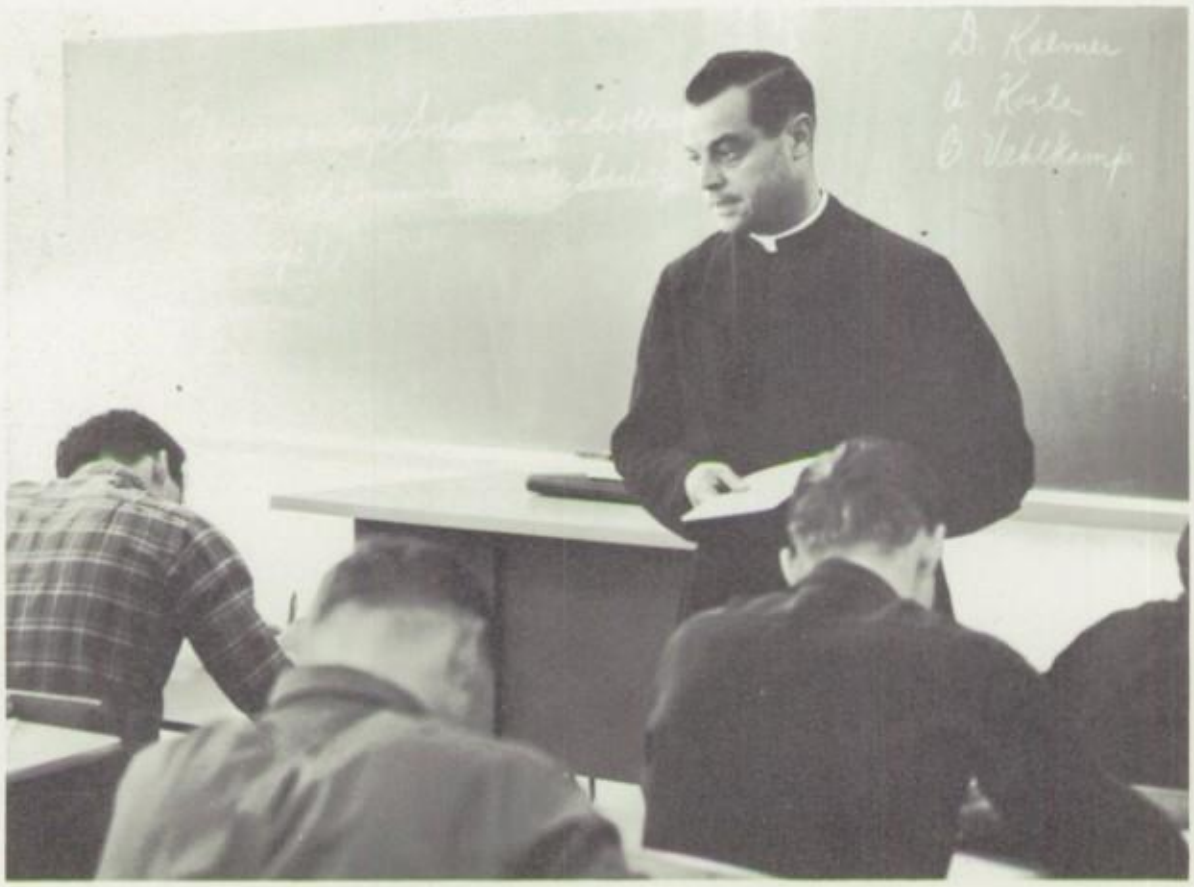
"Religion is real and for all human beings," Father Kuhl instructs Maurice Diekemper.

"Till death do us part". . .-Bob Kuhl ponders the essence of marriage.



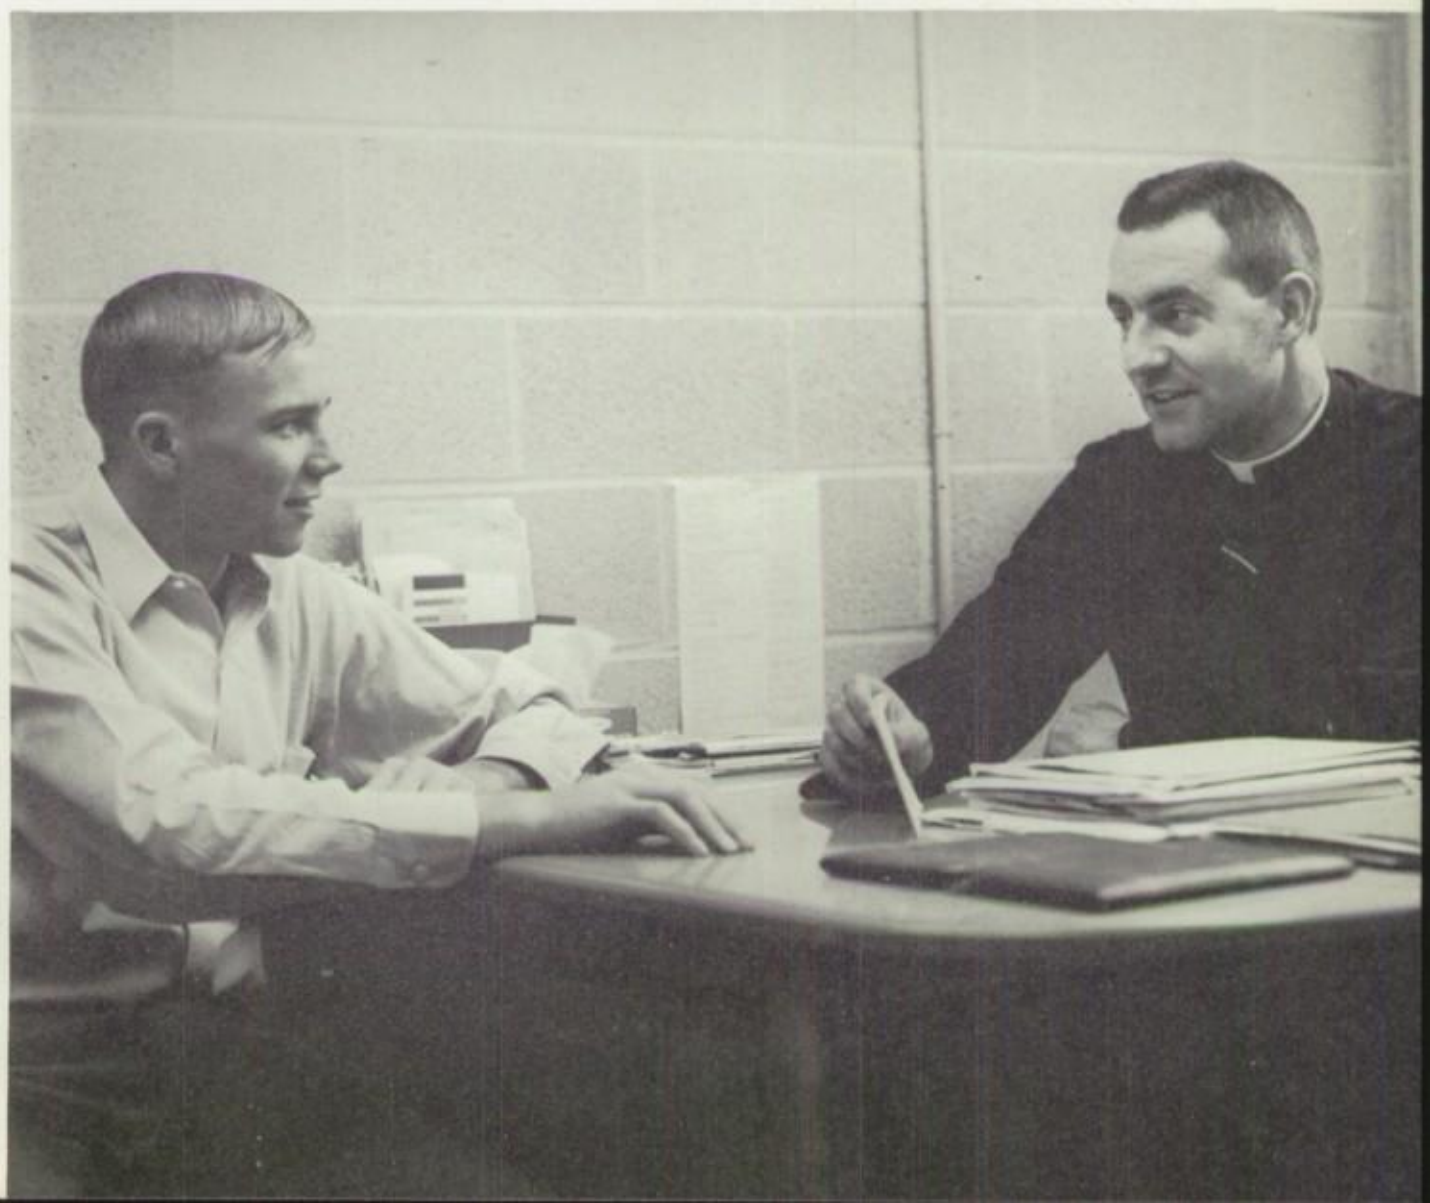
Fathers Best, Engelhart, and Goewert discuss the latest happenings in their religion classes.

Define "self-evident truth," Father Baggio challenges his Senior men.



Bob Bruegge tries to answer the many whys of existence.

Now you know you can't go to an all-girl's college, . . . don't you Virgil?



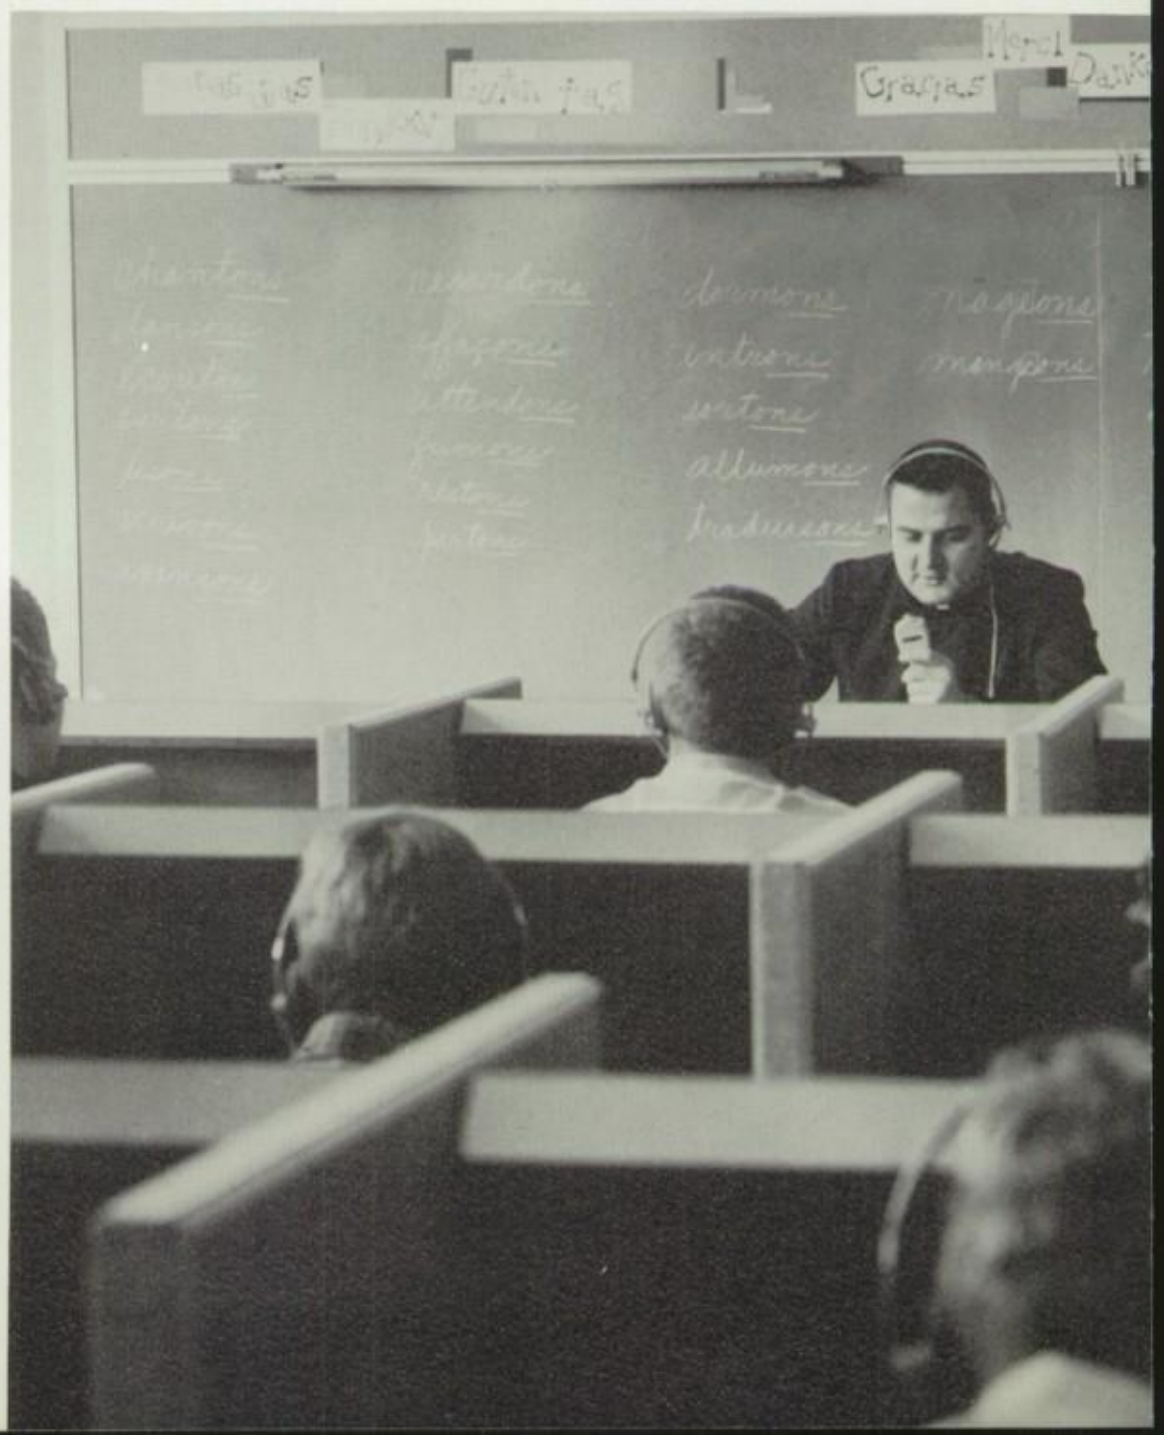
Language

To operate this, first turn it on.

Father Zarzecki meditates on a Latin problem.

I wonder if French girls have as much fun as we do?

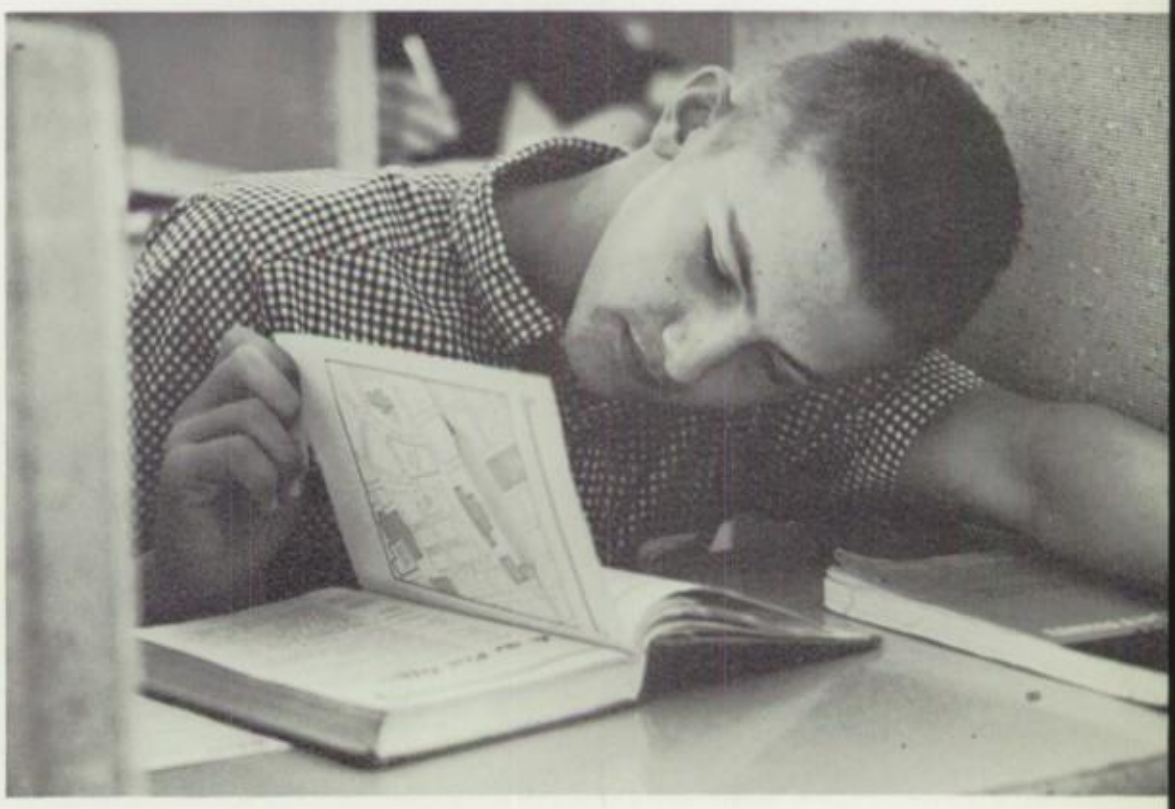
Students, please disregard the French on the blackboard.



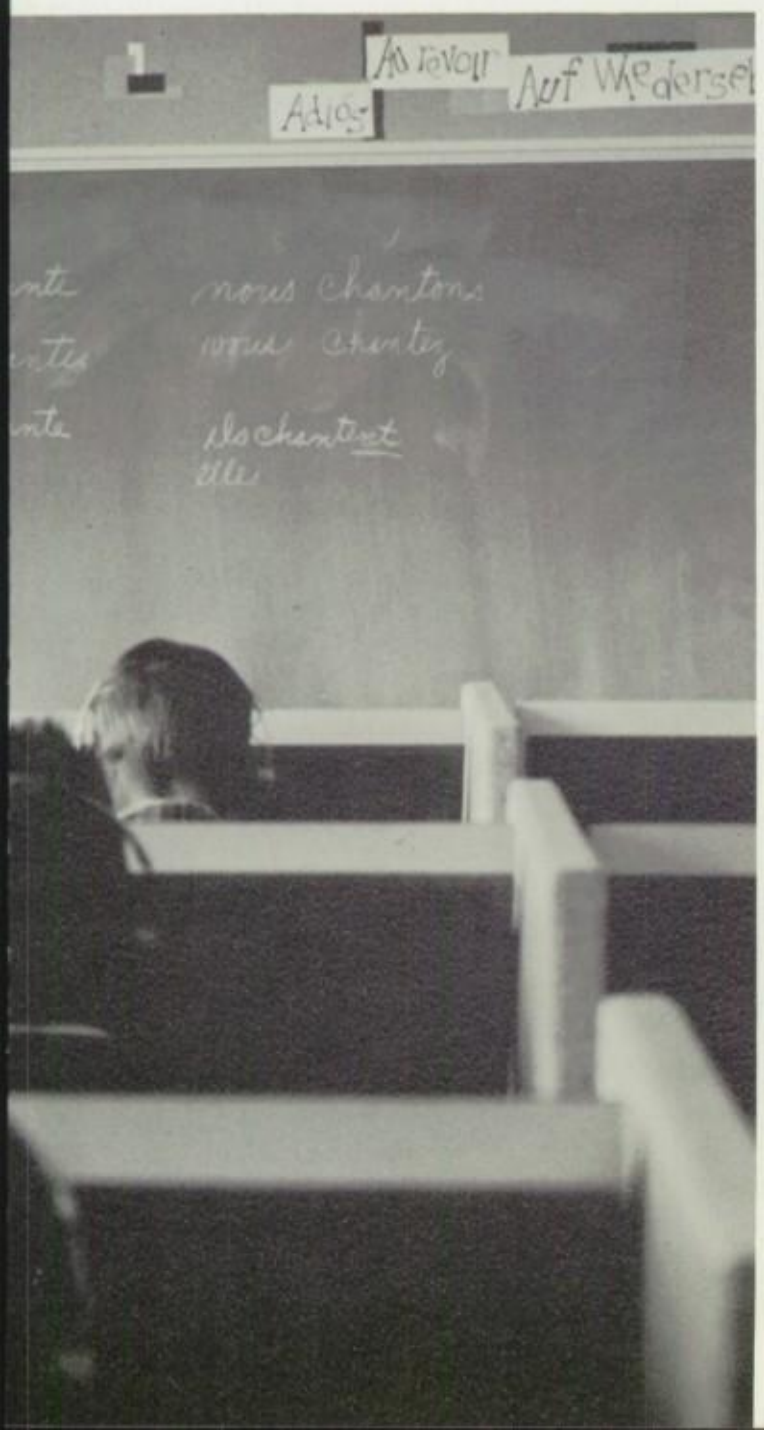
One of the many student conveniences at M.D. is the modern language lab. Here students, with the help of individual tapes and recorders, get practice in French, German and Spanish.

Mrs. Klostermann gives aid to one of her Spanish students.

Gee, these answers sure are helpful.

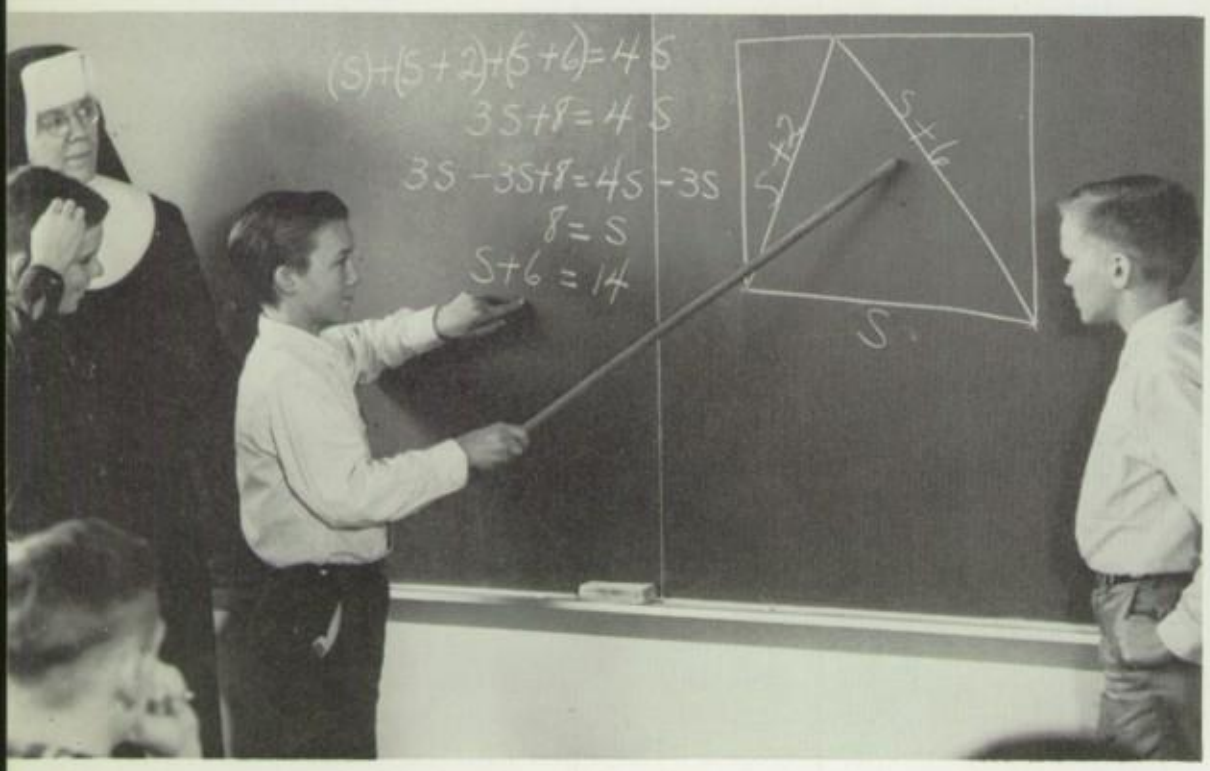


"Understand?" Sister Christine questions.



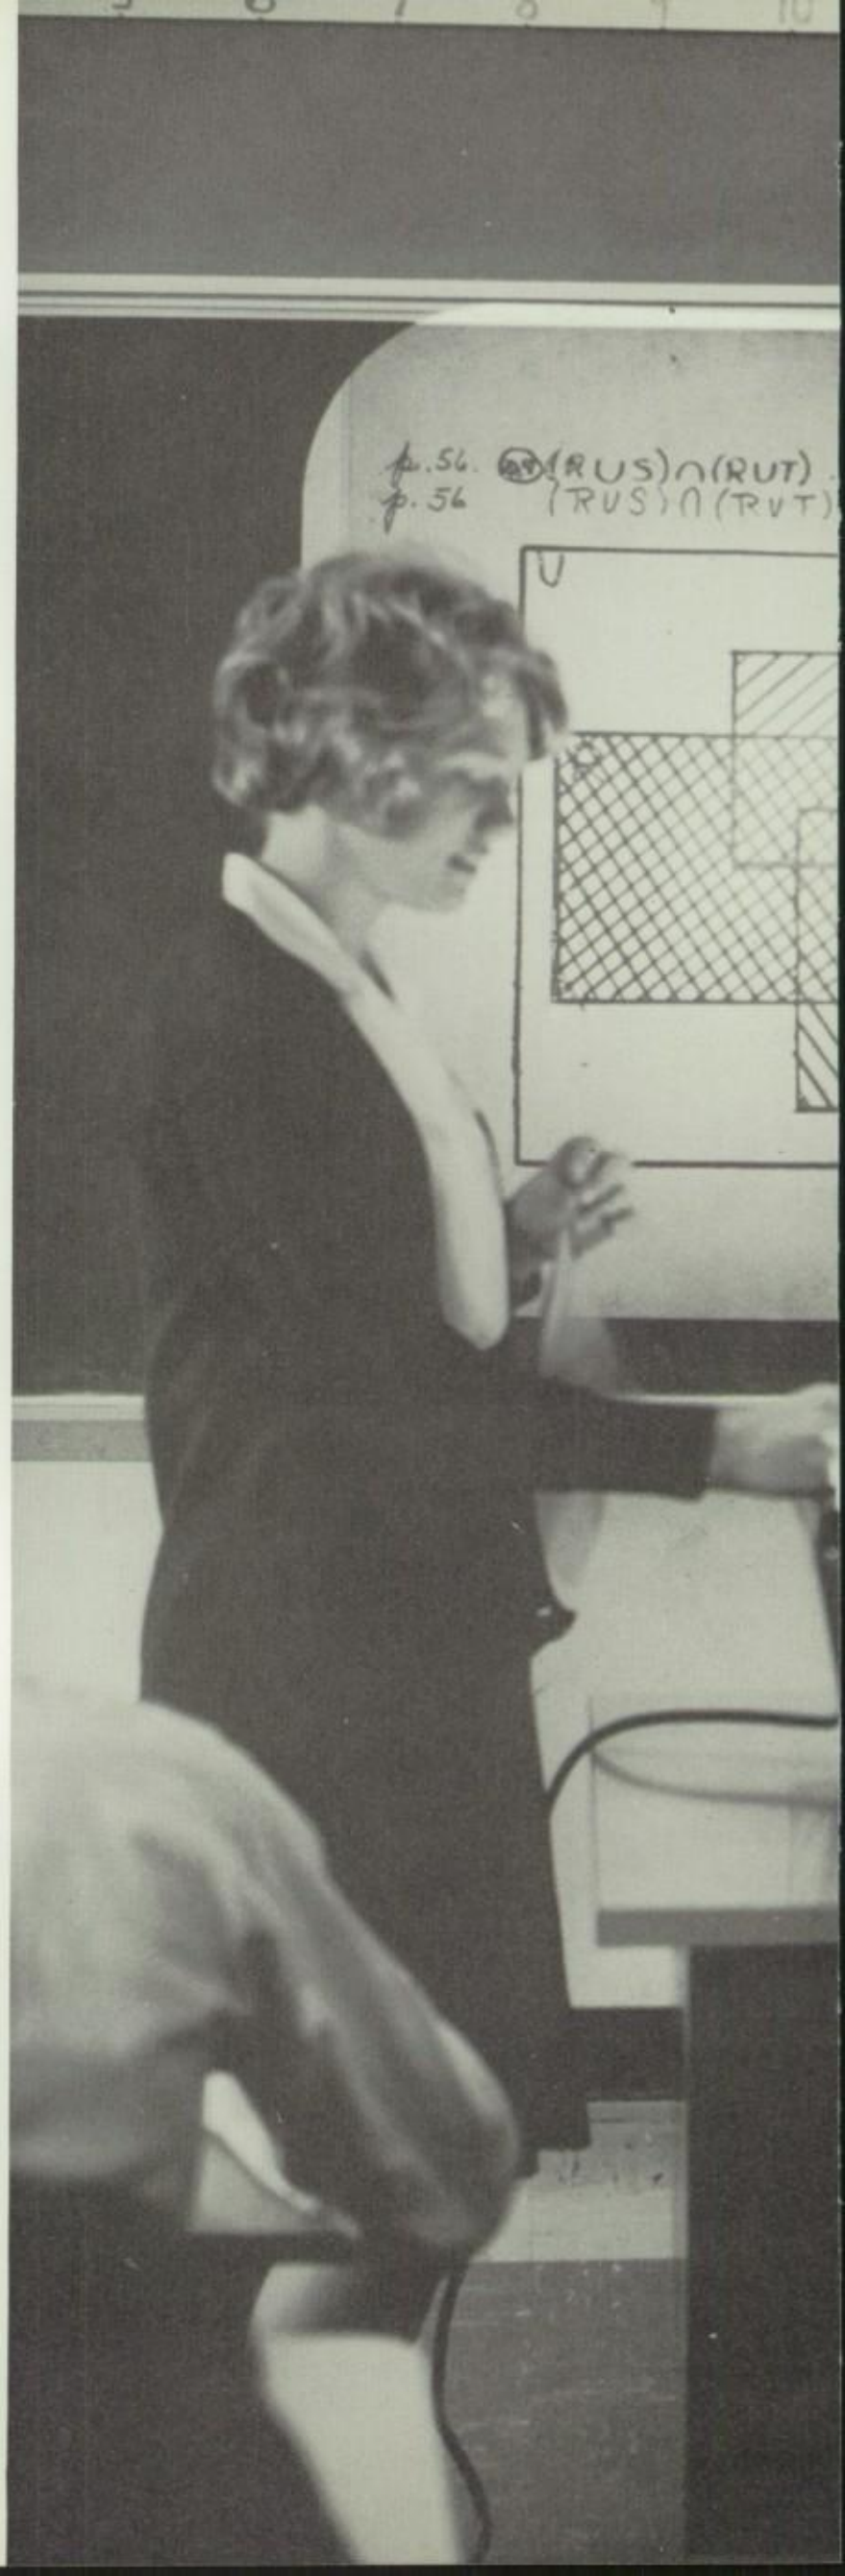
Math

Mr. Klostermann advises a student on an algebra problem.



Ken Jansen explains a problem to the doubting Ken Rehkemper.

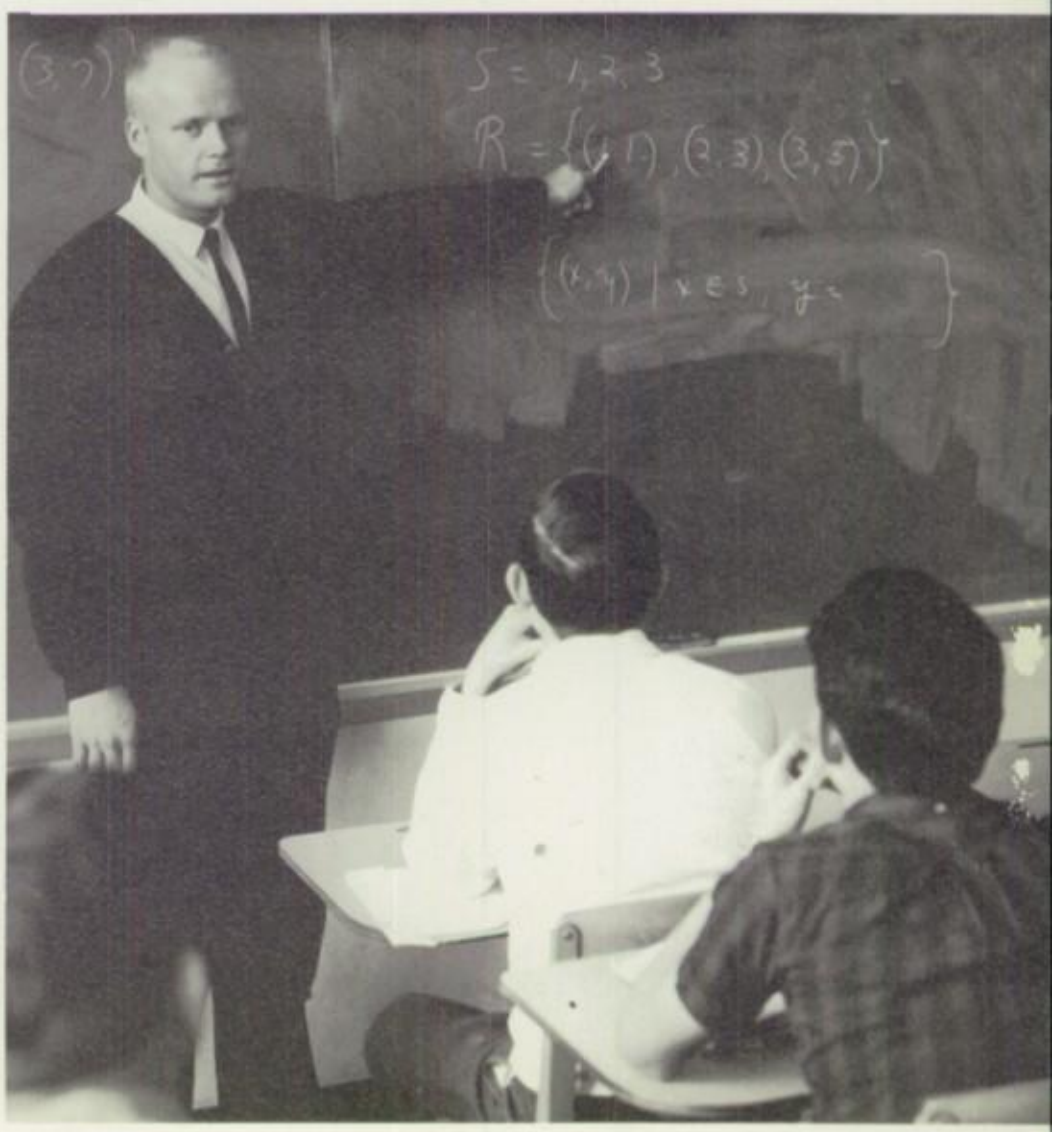
College Prep students work problems with the help of Sister Kathleen.



With the overhead projector, complicated problems become easier.

Is Sister Peter reading a joke or an equation?

Mr. Fuehne points out the fundamentals of sets to his Algebra I class.



English

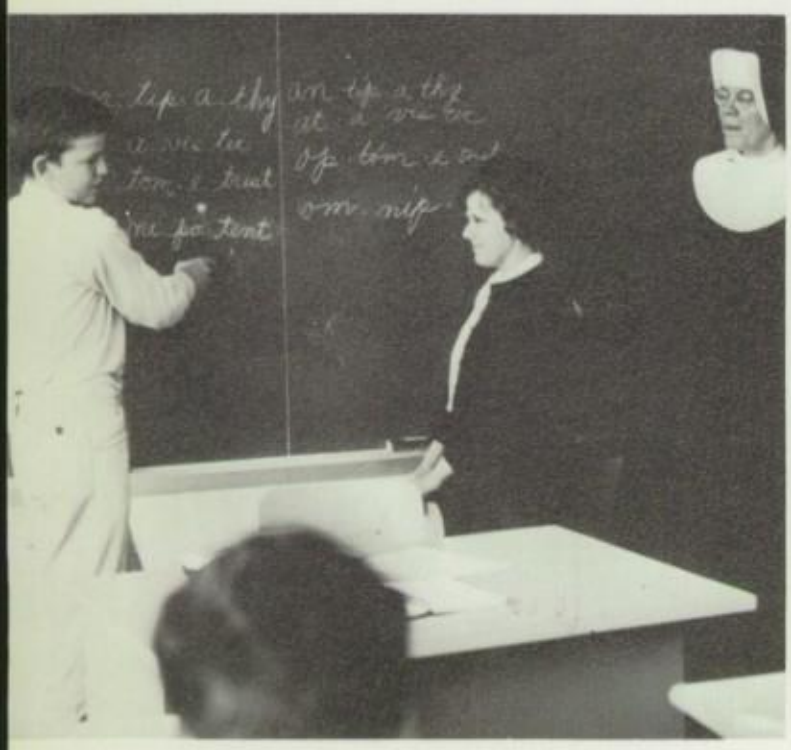
Sister Pierre guides her students to better English.



Lively discussion, Sister Peter?

Sister Etheldreda opens up the world of literature.

Sister Christine instructs Senior men in the art of Perspectives.

Revision of themes is a major point in Sister Elizabeth's English classes.

Literature becomes easier in Sister Bernarda's class with the use of paper back editions.

Social Sciences

A smile is brought to Coach Killen's face by the answer of one of his American History students.

The Democratic landslide vote is begun with Richard Masching.

American Problem students race to get down notes on Father Orlet's talk on Communism.

Student reports captivate even Father Best.

Sister Edna Marie keeps her class in attention by questioning their knowledge.

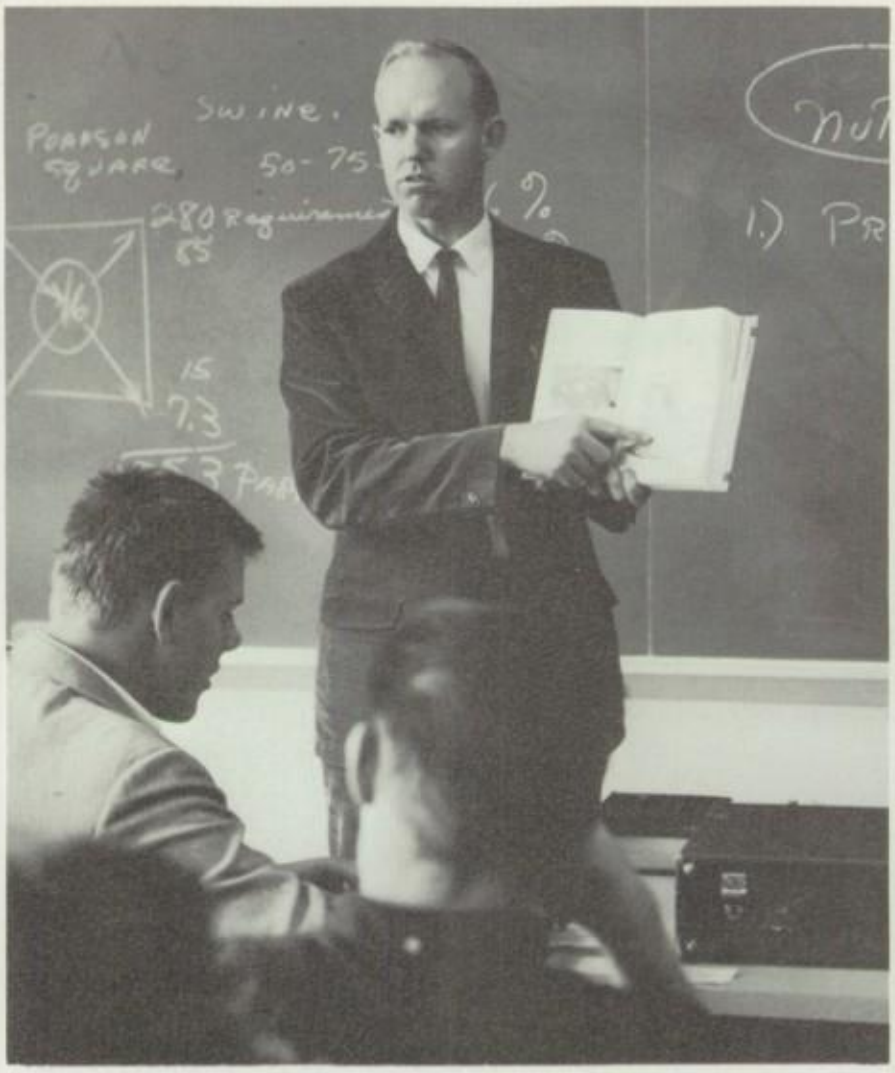
Mr. Schlarman explains the meaning of laissez-faire to freshman Charles Hahn.

Sister Lenora listens proudly to a Social Studies report well-done.

And today's weather . . .

Miss Wessel points to North America.

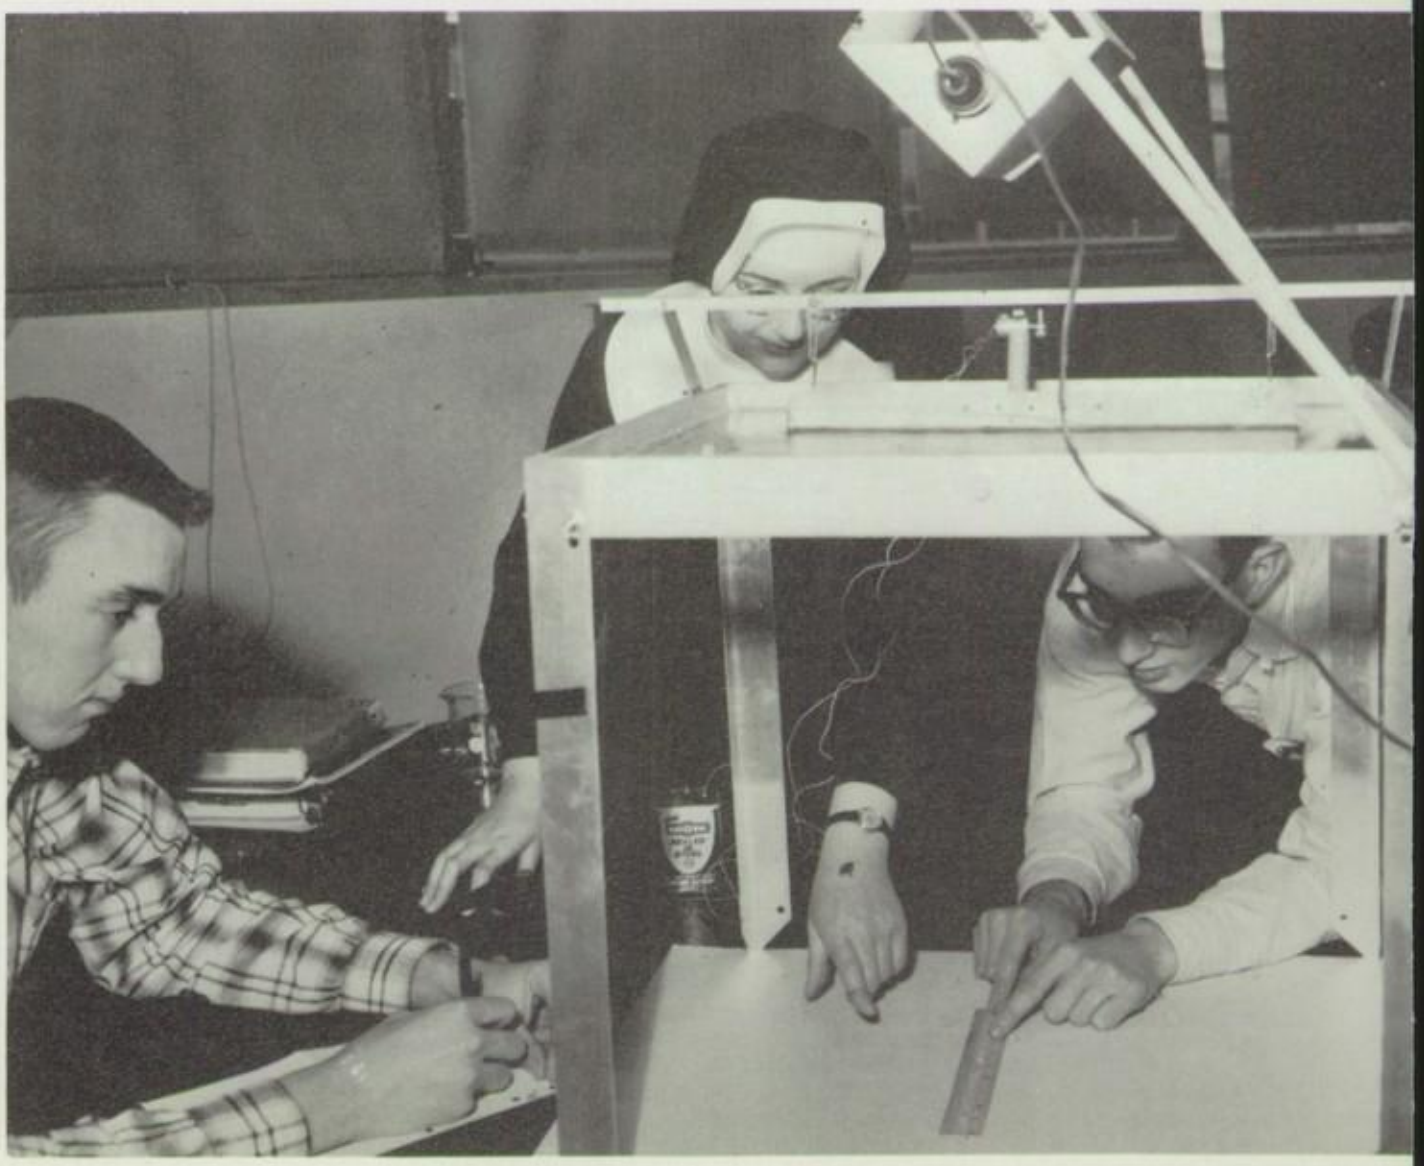
Science



"Farmers of the future use scientific methods," points out Mr. Eade.

Clean tools tial for Gen- ence.

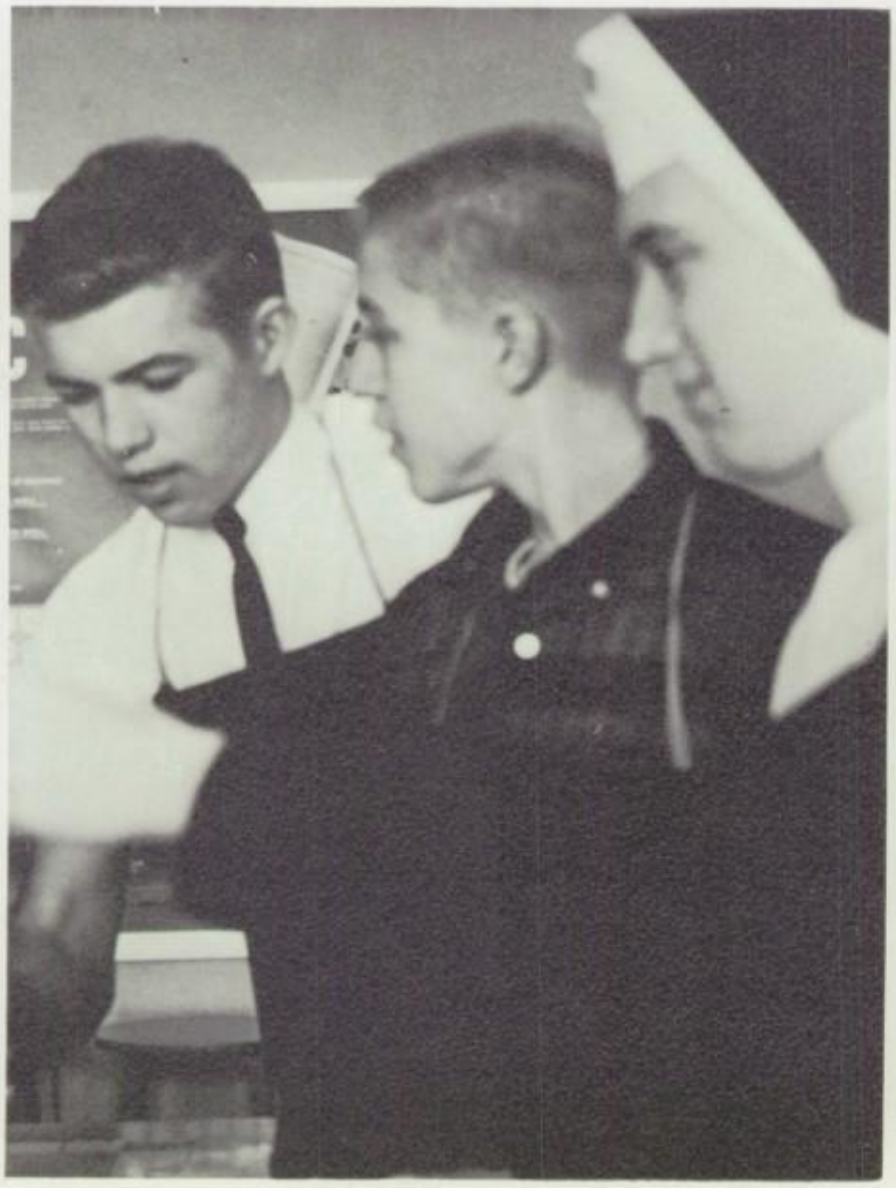
Freshman student attempts to answer Mr. Campbell's questions about the atmosphere.



With great patience and detail, physics students Jim Kehrer, David Anderson, and Don Karban measure between light waves.

are essen-
eral Sci-

Eddie Mondt observes some of the specimen of the biology storeroom.



Sister Theresa examines Ken Dulle's and Bob Haake's acidic solutions.

Sister Veronica taxes her students' minds with new biological concepts.

Art

Under the direction of Sister M. David, the art class learns the how-to of many projects. Here, Tom Schulte explains the work involved in his mosaic cross.

Art lends itself to self-expression--Judy Lodes explains the mood of her painting of the Virgin Mary.

Inspiration from a twig comes easy to Nancy and Mickie.

The Fine Arts

The fine arts program enriches the cultural life of Mater Dei students in speech, art, and music appreciation.

Sister Bryan's Speech students learn the art of act and sound.

Art Appreciation helps freshmen to understand paintings.

Freshman Ken Diekemper and Don Davis boast recognition of Hayden's Surprise Symphony.

Music

Dennis Wobbe picks up the beat at a lively pep rally.

The band sits in wait for "the leader of the pack."

Under Sister Brenda's leadership, the tone quality of the Music Department goes up.

The high notes are nit easily by the Glee Club.

Business

Typewriters, adding machines, shorthand notebooks, bookkeeping files--these are a part of M.D. 's Business Department. With the aid of this modern equipment, graduates are better prepared to face the commercial world.

Sister M. Matthew's Office Practice class learns the professional way of typing.

"Now class, I've got two new jokes for you this morning," demonstrates Father Feldman, head of the Business Department.

Practice is the most essential part of shorthand, and what better way to practice than with Sister Carol dictating.

Joyce and Sister John de Rossi both know that one mistake could throw a budget off by several hundred dollars.

Home Economics

Keeping house in Home Ec's "house" is almost like home.

"Me Tonto! You Jane!" Sister Timothy Ann declares as she gives an example of a choleric temperament.

The Home Ec class enjoys doing their part for their team as they wash the team's towels and sweatshirts.

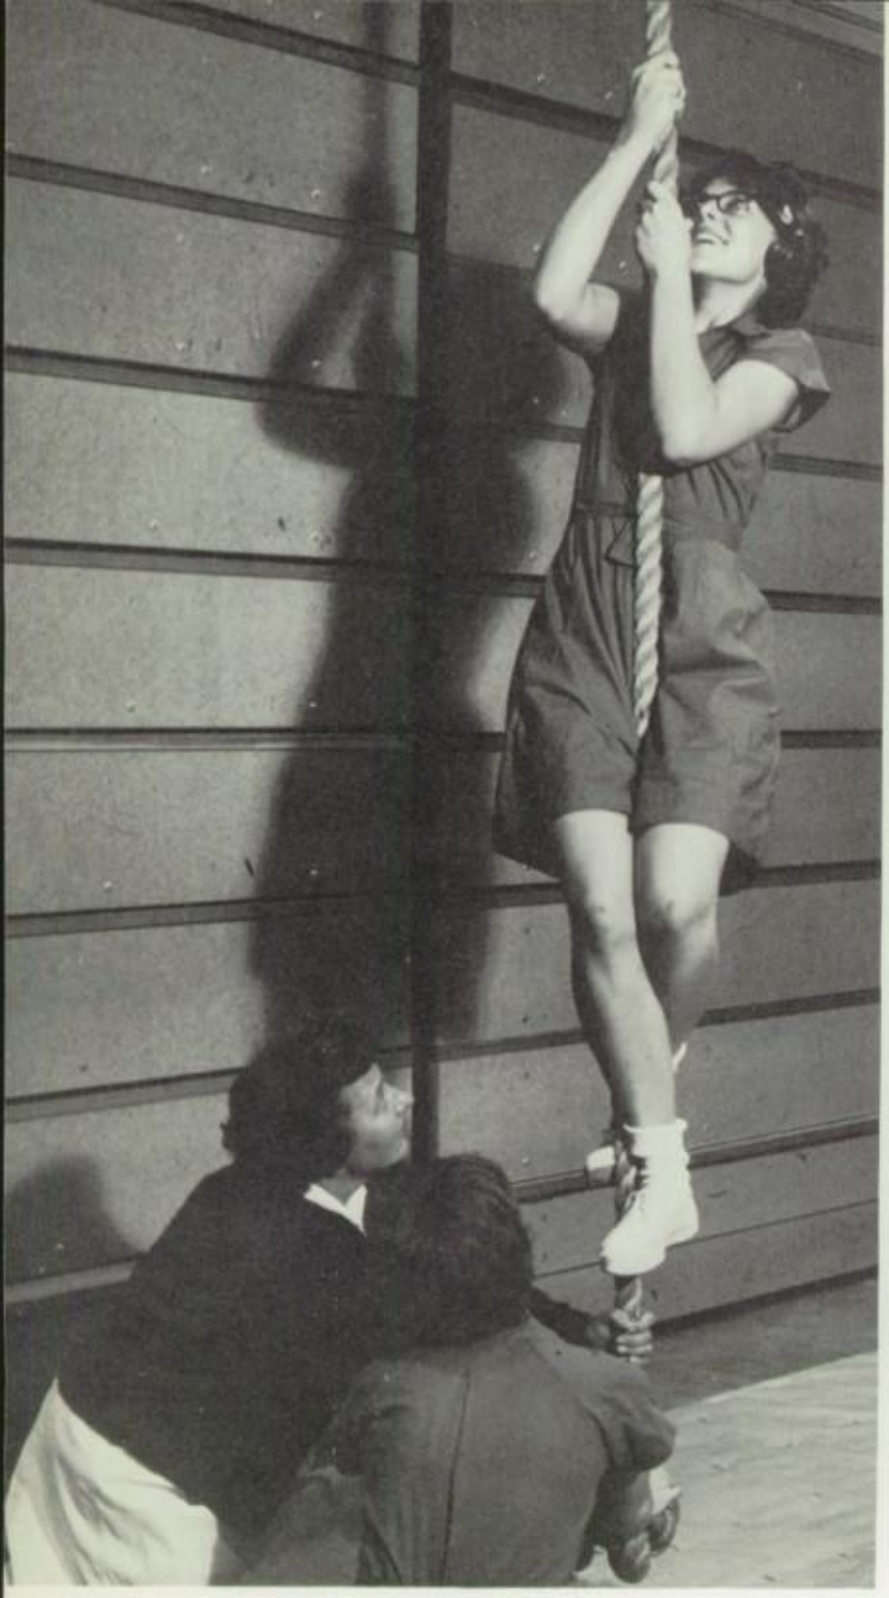
In Home Ec some cook, some bake, some read.

Early each morning, even before students arrive, the kitchen committee is hard at work preparing daily meals for more than a thousand kids. From left to right are - Mrs. Cora Warnecke, Mrs. Rose Loepker, Mrs. Til Renchen, Mrs. Bertha Timmermann, Mrs. Alvina Hustedde, Mrs. Lorraine Voss.

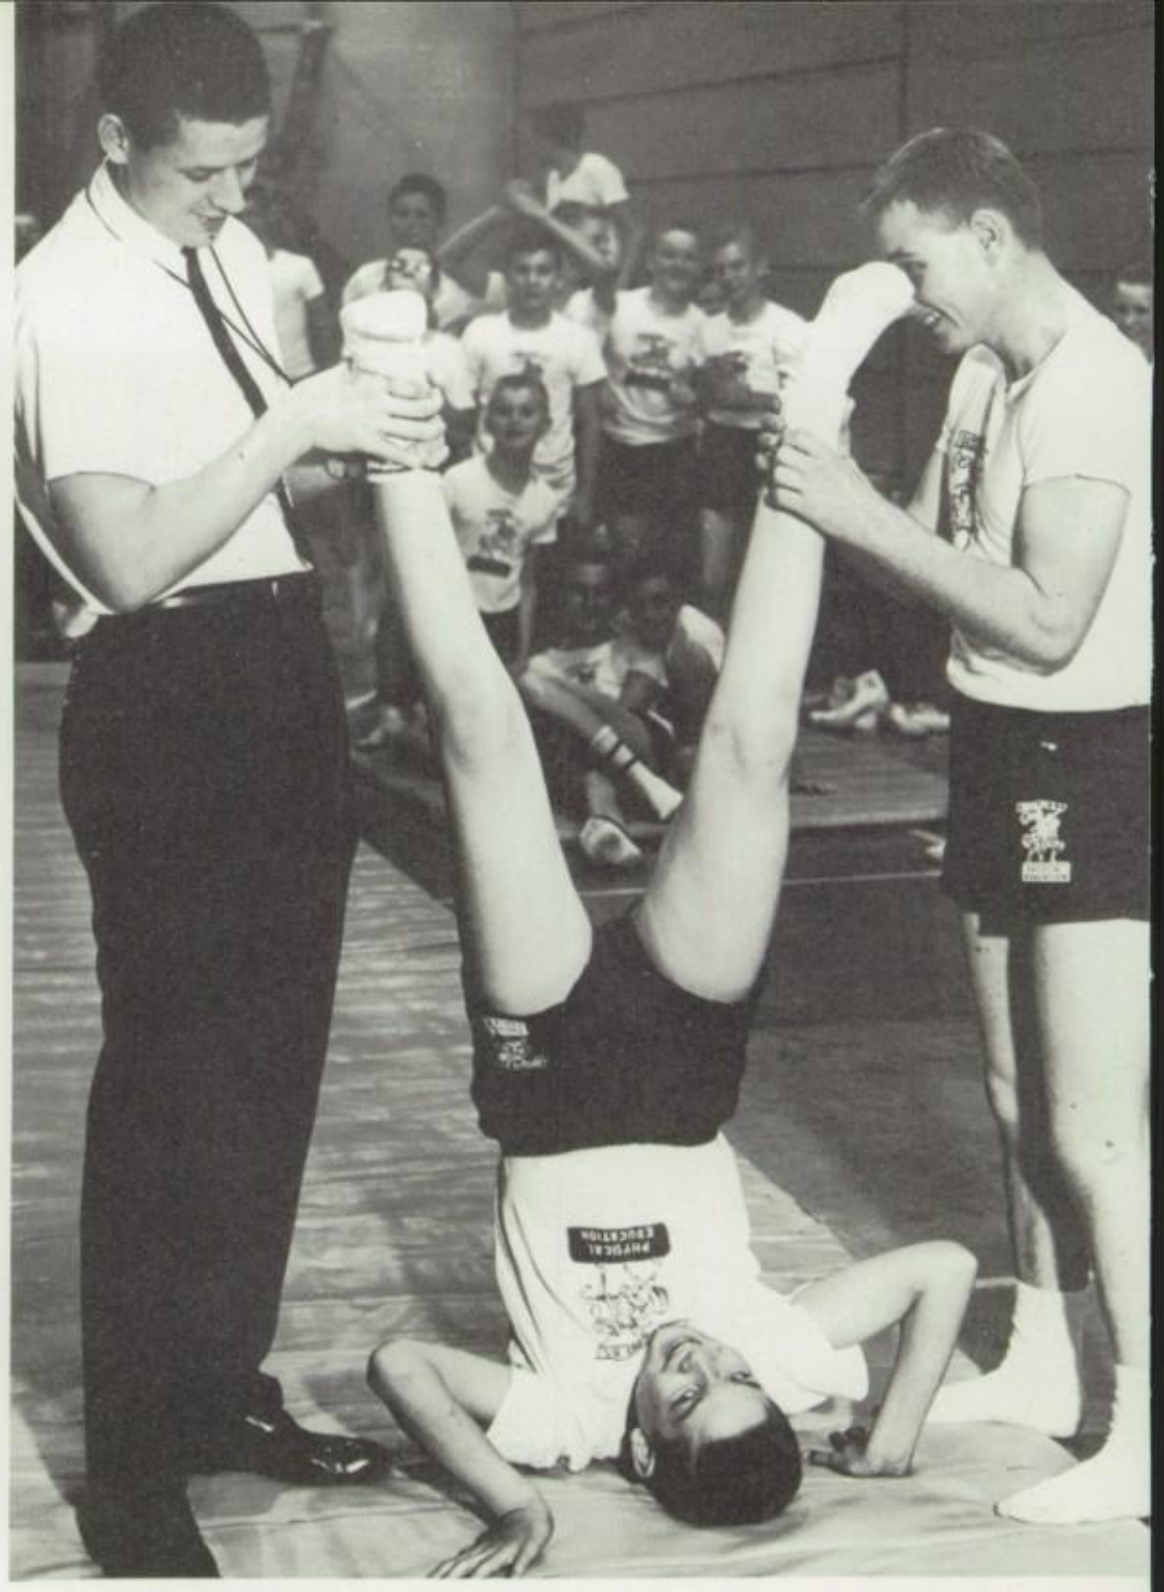
When the 2:50 dismissal bell rings, these cleaning ladies take over: Mrs. Buscher, Mrs. Goewert and Mrs. Ratermann.

Janitors Mr. Mazeka and Mr. Hilmes are the expert builders at M.D., whether it's making cabinets or shower rooms for P.E. classes.

Ever faithful bus driver, Jerry Voss, who drives more than 120 miles per day, not to mention the trips to all the basketball games.



Me Jane.



"Bottoms up!" Coach Campbell's P.E. class uses mats (and help) to do calisthenics.

Hey ref, YOU need glasses!

Over the net, Mrs. Bruemmer's girls exert themselves in a strenuous volleyball game.

Dieting isn't the only way of losing weight. Sister Eric's P.E. class does vigorous exercises

Mary Hargrave demonstrates expression.

Speech and Drama

The Speech and Drama class taught by Sister Bryan, S.S.N.D., has succeeded in its first year of formation. Devoted to the expression, understanding, direction, and work-behind-curtains of dramatics, the class has contributed much to placing drama and speech on M.D.'s list of "excells."

Angela Fischer explains drama.

Behind-curtain crew is "Jack-of-all-trades!

Director Judy Lodes demands performance "oomph."

Dramatics

"Me and My Shadow" suits twins to a "t".

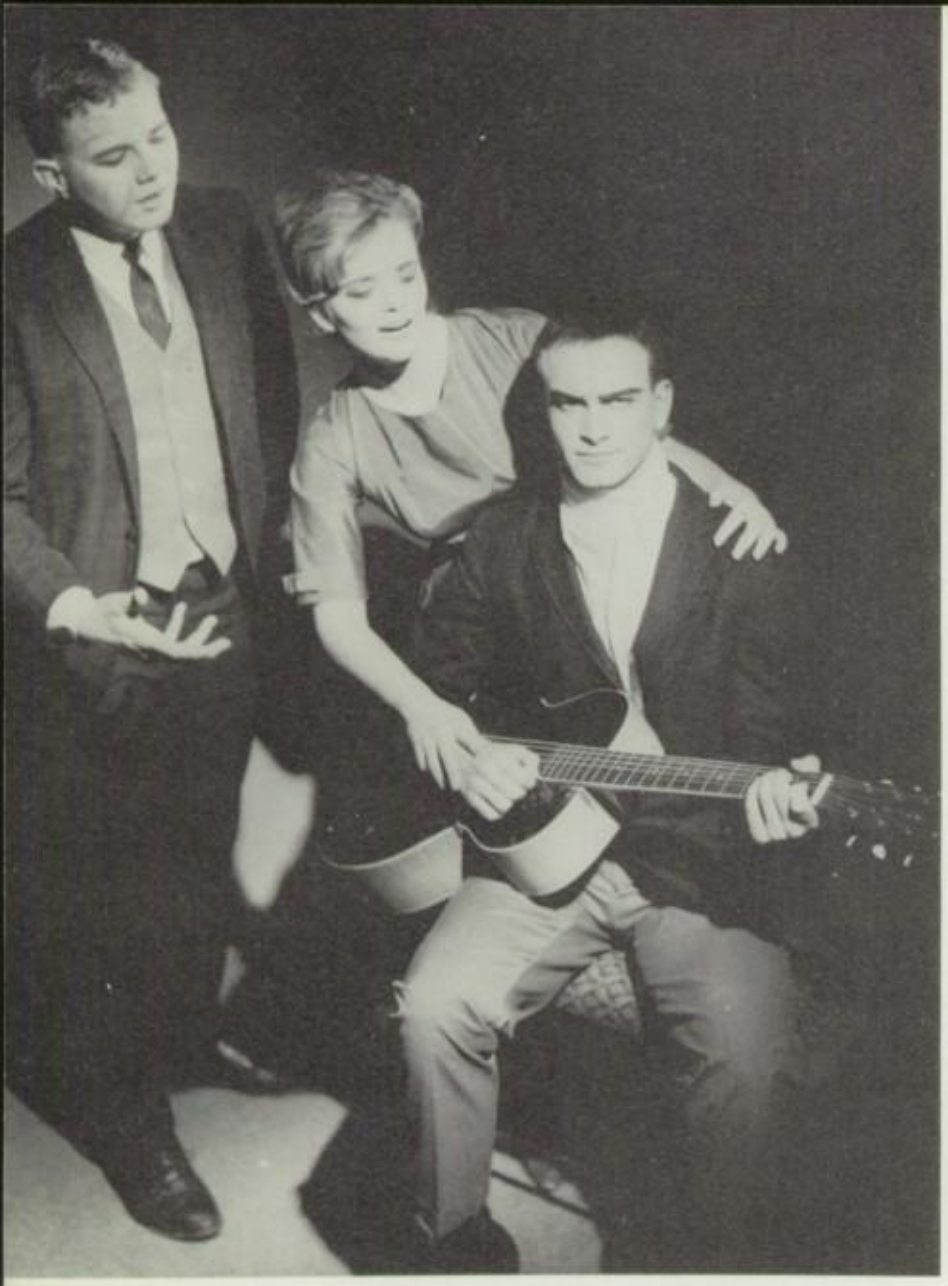
"Pink Panther" wins the approval of all the "cats" in the audience.

On Nov. 1, 1964, M.D.'s dramatics club put on one of her history's best variety shows.

And on Feb. 6, 1965, she added to her achievements the one-act play, "Hamlet" receiving not only an "excellent" for the play, but also "excellent"s for four separate members of her cast.

Kathy Head (Queen Gertrude) wins fame in closet scene with her son, Hamlet.

Colby Sellers, as Hamlet, receives the greatest praise ever by any male one-act play lead.



Elsa, Doris Sundrup, and Max, Carl Heimann, plead, "Compromise and be wise!" with the Captain, Don Karban.

"She's an angel. . ."

"She's a devil. . ."

"She's a lamb . . ."

"She's a GIRL!"

Kathy Krebs, Kathy Tierney, Joan Sundrup, and Dorothy Richter portray Nonnberg nuns.

"The Captain will regret not joining with the Nazis!" warns Franz, Ronald Kleiboecker, to Frau Schmidt, Cheryl Ryan.

The Sound of

"You are sixteen, going on seventeen, innocent as a rose..." Virgil Tebbe (Rolf) begins to wonder as Leisle (Doris Robke) puckers up.

Captain realizes Maria exists.

Music

Maria's singing calms Von Trapp children during a storm.

"I do."

May Queen Angie

Senior Sodality offers bread and wine at their Father Rivers' Mass.

Publications

Co-editors Don Karban and Kathy Peters agree--"U-Knighted we stand."

"Statistics prove that nine out of every ten captions aren't used," interrupts Don Karban as David Anderson starts to give his.

"A Staff's work is never done." Mater Dei Lance Staff employs only the best techniques for each of the six publications.

Prom

Prom King David Woltering escorts Queen Toni Cervenka to "Sayonara" throne. Prom given by Class of 1965.

Students are never so united as in their senior year. Although the junior-senior prom starts the unity a-rolling, teaching students to work and to laugh together, the Tea and Ring Ceremony give the seniors a greater sense of love not only for every member of the class, but for everyone---a love that will live forever.

Seniors enjoy entertainments and eats.

Tea

Rings

December 17th brings the reception of class rings. Bill Grapperhaus receives his with pride and deep thanks.

THE PERFECT MOMENT . . . queen Lynn crowns one of her loyal attendants.

"Some Enchanted Evening" Queen Lynn Altadonna, escorted by Wayne Trame reigns over her priceless court: Senior Janice Breiner, escorted by Dave Jansen; Sophomore Darlene Kalmer, escorted by Ken Dulle; and Freshman Michele Means, escorted by Bill Arndt (not shown).

Donald Karban
"Don"
St. George, New Bade

The duties of the Student Council are many, from supervising corridor traffic to keeping up the S. C. bulletin board. These five officers have worked dilligently the last year on projects of benefit to their fellow students. Some of the fruits of their labor include the "Student Exchange Program" and the "getting to know you" campaign, both projects initiated this year.

Officers

Officers of the Class of '65 discuss plans for the coming graduation with class coordinator, Sister Jeannine.

Elected to the honor of class officers these four students have given their all to the spread of the spirit of unity and love that the Class of 1965 strives to be known for.

Through sports, cheerleading, drama, sodality, and genuine love for every member of the class, these four students have given themselves to their goal.

Donald Schmidt
"Smitty"
St. Dominic, Breese

Sports awards: two minor basketball letters; one minor and two varsity track letters; fourteen first places and district Cross-Country winner; three-year Letterman's Club membership--and homeroom offices: two-year President and one-year Vice-President--and three-year Sodality membership---all have won for Don Schmidt the office of the President of the Senior Class.

Vice-President Judy Lodes has served her class as cheerleader for three years, active member and officer of the sodality for three years. President of homeroom for two years, Student Council representative one year, officer of the dramatics club. Having won numerous awards in drama, and starring as the leading lady in The Sound of Music, Judy has given herself to the Class of 1965.

Judith Lodes
"Jude"
St. George, New Baden

Judith Rueter
"Judy"
St. Mary, Carlyle

Secretary Judy Rueter has renewed in the senior class the spirit of unity and love through her constant devotion to the Sodality for three years, representation to the C.S.M.C. for two years, president of her homeroom in her senior year, and cheerleader for the Knights for two years. Being an active member of Chorus and Dramatics and having the role of a "singing nun" in the senior play, Judy has fulfilled every demand of her office.

Treasurer Wayne Trame has lived the spirit of the Class of '65. His one minor letter and two varsity letters in track; three varsity letters each in Cross-Country, baseball, and basketball; three-year membership and officer of the Letterman's Club; one-year President of his homeroom, two-year Vice-President; Vice-President of Spanish Club; and one-year Sodalist have won for Wayne the esteem of his fellow seniors.
